Swag

Coding on the Database Health Reports project, making notes in my Quest Software notebook, with a pencil from Redgate SQL in the City, wearing my Confio t-shirt, refilling my SQLSentry plastic pint glass with a Nalgene bottle from Quest Software, storing data on my Redgate thumb drive, overwhelmed with all the swag from the last several conferences.

Oh and don’t forget the Redgate hot sauce with the SQL Source control license on it from a year ago.