Working on the February 2022 Database Health Monitor Version

Even though we just release Database Health Monitor version 911 the January 2022 release, I am already working on the next version.

I have added a new chart to replace some of those older pie charts. Here is the comparisons on a couple of reports.

The Database By Size report from Version 991

Compared to the same report on the new version.

And also the Table Size report as is in version 991.

And here is what it looks like in the next versions.

I plan to continue to make improvements month over month, and this is just the start.

I expect that the February release will be ready about mid February. Keep an eye out for that next update. This is just one of the improvements we have planned.

Links:

- http://DatabaseHealth.com