Free Ransomware Course – Everyday Value

Around a year ago I put together this free Ransomware Awareness course. It is one of those things that I felt so strong about because I had seen so many small (and large) business being impacted by ransomware. If I can give this course away and prevent just one ransomware course, it has bene worth it.

In the last couple of years I have seen far too much ransomware. I have seen some people lose their databases with no way of getting them back, and I have seen others who have been able to get everything. Some have paid the ransom, and some have not. Even some who have paid the ransom did not got their data back.

Doing my part to fight the evils of ransomware, I have created a short free training class that specifically focuses on preparing your SQL Server so that if you are hit with ransomware that you will be in a better position to recover.

No coupon code required.

https://stevestedman.com/ransomware