Preview of the Table Size Advisor

As I get the Database Health project ready to release as a beta, more of the components are coming together.  For instance shown here is the Table Size Advisor which can be accessed from the Disk Space Report.

In this example you can quickly see that the Demographics column in the Person table is taking up 13MB or roughtly 88% of the entire table space.

Remember if you want to be part of the Beta available on September 1st, just register on this website and you will be informed when then Beta download is available.