It is finally here. Beta 1 of the Database Health Reports for SQL Server.

In October last year I started work on the Database Health reports project.  It started out as a series of SSRS reports that I released and updated in December 2011 to March 2012.  After that it became clear that the SSRS reports weren't going to do what I was looking for so I started on the Database Health reports version 2.0 which migrated all the original reports into an application and added much more functionality than I had before.

Today (September 1, 2012) I have released the Beta 1 of the Database Health reports project.

Please give it a try and let me know how it works for you.  See the Database Health website for more details on this project.

Here is a screenshot of the database overview page.

Enjoy!
