

Corruption Challenge #5 Coming Soon

Database Corruption Challenge #5 is coming soon. Those who subscribe to my newsletter will know the exact date and time of the next Database Corruption Challenge.

Lets take a look back at the winners from the previous challenges.

- Week 1 - Brent Ozar
- Week 2 - Rob Farley
- Week 3 - Randolph West
- Week 4 - Randolph West

If you want to see where you stand in the scoring, please check out the current scores page.

Looking back at corruption challenge #4, the Change Data Capture in the database may not have been the best corruption challenge, and after that challenge I did promise to not use CDC on any corrupt database going forward, at least for the rest of this challenge.

What do I have in store for Challenge #5, stick around and you will find out soon.

There have been a large number of requests that the next corruption challenge be hosted on a weekday, rather than a weekend. So for now, I am going to say that the next corruption challenge will last for 3 days, and it will not start on a weekend. If you want more details than that, be sure to subscribe to my newsletter.

-Steve Stedman