Another Happy Customer

After finishing a recent project we received this feedback from the customer.

As a community health center with many competing priorities and limited resources, we sought out Stedman Solutions for help with optimizing, maintaining, and upgrading our aging SQL infrastructure. We've engaged with Steve and Derrick for several SQL-related projects, including an initial assessment and optimization, and a "forklift" upgrade to a newer version of SQL required by one of our software vendors – and we couldn't be happier to work with them.

Each project we've worked with them on has been a great experience for us – they are consummate professionals, providing very detailed scope-of-work proposals and taking the time to explain it all in as much or as little detail as you need, so you know exactly what to expect. And perhaps most importantly (and a rarity with many consulting professionals these days), they say exactly what they'll do, and do exactly what they say. Thoroughness and follow-through are never a concern when working with them on a project.

We feel quite fortunate to have Stedman Solutions available as our SQL expert partners, and we can't recommend them highly enough!
