

Website Outage

Last night my website (this site) experienced an outage. Sometime during the night the Mysql process hosting my Wordpress website crashed. Too bad there isn't a Wordpress solution that uses a SQL Server database.

Things are back now, and the site is working.

Knowing so much about SQL Server and high availability, it is difficult to rely on technology like Mysql where I don't have that high availability background. Oh well, the site is back now.